Offers a variety of support service programs for seniors such as the friendly visiting program, the telephone assurance program, and the walk-a-bit program. These programs reduce the social isolation of the older adult by allowing them to engage in reoccurring social interactions. After an initial assessment, a volunteer is matched with the senior and the timing and duration of the programs can be negotiated. In addition, the center holds frequent health and wellness group education programs to discuss a variety of health related topics and issues relevant to the older adult population. There is no charge for these services.

The Alzheimer Society of Thunder Bay offers several programs for individuals with Alzheimer's Disease and their families.

The First Link program allows individuals who have been newly diagnosed with Alzheimer's Disease to be connected to programs and community services that would be of benefit to them. The First Link coordinator meets with the individual and their family to gain an understanding of the person with dementia and link the individual to health services and resources which would best benefit the client's situation. The First Link coordinator will follow-up with the client throughout the Alzheimer's Disease continuum to recommend services that would benefit the client during each stage. Additionally, the First Link program provides the client and his/her family with an understanding of the disease along with the new challenges it will present in the client's life.

The learning series is a progressive program that parallels the Alzheimer's Disease progression. There are several topics which aim to increase the knowledge of Alzheimer's Disease and offer strategies to aid with coping with Alzheimer's Disease. The first learning session is geared for both the individual with dementia and his/her family to help with understanding the Alzheimer's Disease diagnosis. Subsequent sessions are geared towards family members and friends caring for the individual with Alzheimer's Disease. The sessions focus on communication strategies, understanding behavior, and community resources available. A session also covers what options are available for care when the individual can no longer safely reside in the home.

The diner's club program is a social outlet which invites people with memory loss, their families, and partners in care to a local restaurant during the last Tuesday of every month. This program attracts upwards of 60 people per session and provides an informal venue for which to share stories and the opportunity to connect with others in a similar situation.

The Alzheimer's Society hosts a number of discussion and support groups for select segments of the population. The mens breakfast club serves as an outlet for men who are caring for someone with dementia to connect and share their experiences with other men in the same situation. Similarly, the caring hearts womens groups provides a support group exclusively for women care providers. For caregivers who reside outside of the Thunder Bay district, the Ontario Telemedicine Network (OTN) is used to bring caregivers together through videoconferencing technology once per month.

The Alzheimer's Society is active in offering education to the public at health fairs or upon request from community groups or organizations.

Wesway provides companionship services to older adults diagnosed with dementia. In order to be eligible for this service, the older adult must be living with a family member (ie. The older adult can not live independently). The older adult is allotted an amount of hours to use throughout the year to have a companion who can take him/her out in the community or provide in-home companionship. The companionship services offers respite for the family member(s) while facilitating inclusion of the older adult in community events and activities. Companionship services are available on a mutually agreed basis between the companion and older adult, but can include weekdays, weekends, mornings, and evenings.

Should Wesway not have a robust pool of staff in smaller communities (such as Marathon), Wesway allocates the older adult a sum of money in order to hire an independent contractor to provide the companionship services.

The companion comes at no cost to the user, however, it is expected that the older adult (or family) cover the cost associated with any activities or meals for both the older adult and the companion. The waiting list for companionship services can range from immediate to one year.

Wesway also operates a respite home in Thunder Bay where a maximum of 4 participants can stay for a weekend in order to provide respite to family members. Two staff members provide an array of programming at the respite home.

This community outreach program provides assisted living services for older adults in order to maintain maximum independence. A care plan is developed in collaboration with the program coordinator to determine what services best suit the needs of the older adult. Services provided include activities of daily living, personal care, help managing finances, assistance with utilizing community resources, attending appointments, shopping in the community, meal preparation, laundry, housekeeping, banking, exercises, dressing, and transferring. Security checks may also be arranged in person or by telephone. Older adults have the choice to hire and manage their own attendant care staff or allow the program coordinator to provide and manage the attendant care staff. In order to be eligible, an older adult must be over the age of 60 and not on a waiting list for long term care. Although anyone can refer an older adult to this service, an admission selection committee has to approve each application.

VON provides an array of home support, physiotherapy, social work, and nursing services to clients. VON also provides respite care and palliative care services. Services can be rendered in the older adult's home only. An initial consultation by a case manager will ensure that services are matched to meet the unique needs of the older adult. Services are available on a private pay basis or if eligible, services are covered through CCAC.

VON operates an adult day program for older adults (average age= 85-92) diagnosed with mild dementia and have no risk of wandering. The program operates Tuesday to Friday inclusive and transportation is arranged through a dedicated bus operated by Hagi Transit or family can drop off and pick up the older adult. The adult day program accommodates 10 older adults and offers a rotating variety of programs such as cooking, crafts, music, physical activity, mind games, music, and current events. The adult day program removes isolation barriers by providing an outlet for socialization with other older adults. The program is run by two staff members and the program includes snacks and lunch. Referrals are necessary through CCAC caseworkers and individuals currently living in long term care are ineligible.

The Rainy River District Home Support program offers a variety of services to allow older adults to continue living independently in their home.

The home help program provides personal support workers to assist older adults with completing activities of daily living, personal hygiene, shopping, errands, housekeeping, laundry, and other chores. This program can also be used for respite purposes in order to temporarily relieve family members from their caregiver role or for friendly visiting purposes. This service operates from 7 a.m. to 8 p.m. with a minimum one hour appointment. There is a nominal fee for this service charged to the user.

The bath care program allows for older adults to safely receive a bath, should their home bathroom not be set up to execute a bath in a safe manner. This program adverts the risk for potential falls and other injuries associated with home bathing. The older adult is transported to the Rainycrest long term care home where he/she receives a bath in a whirlpool tub. There is a nominal fee (which includes transportation) for this service charged to the user.

The adult day program allows those diagnosed with dementia, Alzheimers disease, or other cognitive disorders to participate in socialization and activities in a group setting. The goal of this program is for older adults to maintain their maximum level of functioning while providing respite for caregivers. The older adult is picked up from home in the LHIN van and returned at the end of the day. The program runs every Tuesday from 9 a.m. to 3 p.m. in the activation room at Rainycrest Long Term Care. Two personal support workers facilitate the program for a maximum of 10 clients. A CCAC referral is required to attend the program. A nominal fee is charged to cover a meal and snacks.

Atikokan Assisted Living Program

Area serviced: Atikokan

The Atikokan Assisted Living Program is comprised of a number of initiatives which provides in-home care to seniors who require additional support to remain in their home and prevent hospitalization or admission to long term care. The home help program is facilitated by PSWs who assist the older adult with general cleaning, meal preparation, banking, shopping, laundry, personal hygiene, and dressing. The program is flexible in nature as clients can phone and get extra hours that same day. This service also offers opportunity for respite by temporarily relieving the caregiver of their duties.

The LifeLine program enhances security by allowing the older adult to summon help should an emergency situation arise while alone. PSWs can be dispatched between the hours of 8:30 a.m. to 10:00 p.m. along with after hours assistance through LifeLine monitoring.

The bath program offers assistance to older adults who feel unsafe while bathing in their in-home bathroom facilities. A personal support worker will assist the older adult with maneuvering in and out of the bathing facilities in the client's home.

The adult day program is held every Thursday from 9:00 a.m. to 3:30 p.m. at the pioneer centre. This program is specifically for older adults with dementia, Alzheimer's Disease, and cognitive impairments, however the day program is open to other older adults who may benefit. The day program offers a variety of social, recreational, and physical activities. A meal and snacks are provided. A transportation service to and from the venue is also provided. To be eligible, a CCAC referral is necessary with priority given to older adults awaiting discharge from hospital, frequent emergency department users, and clients requiring additional services beyond what CCAC provides.

The senior's handi-van service provides transportation services to older adults to attend appointments, go shopping, or pick up medication. The van runs Monday through Friday from 10:00 a.m. to 4:30 p.m.

Residents in the Fortheringham Court apartments can attend the congregate dining program which runs every second week. The congregate dining program is only open to Fotheringham Court residents.

All of the above programs require a nominal fee to be paid by the user.

Manor House Adult Day Program

This program is exclusively for older adults with a diagnosis of dementia or Alzheimer's disease. The purpose of the day program is to provide respite to caregivers while providing a comfortable social environment for older adults with dementia. The program runs during the week and is supported by a recreational therapist. A variety of programming is involved including baking, movies, music, exercise, recreational activities, and crafts. As the program provides respite for caregivers, the program's goal includes allowing a person with dementia to be cared for at home rather than in an institution. A referral from CCAC is required to attend the program and a small fee is needed to cover the cost of food and activity materials. If required, transportation is provided by Hagi transit.

Geriatric Assessment Program

This program provides a comprehensive and holistic assessment of the older adult by both a nurse practitioner and a geriatrician. The assessment by the nurse practitioner takes place in the older adult's home environment and includes a physical, cognitive, and functional assessment. The older adult is followed up by a geriatrician who reviews the assessment and makes recommendation in collaboration with the older adult's primary healthcare provider. Once completed, a written report is made available to the client's primary healthcare provider and follow-up is arranged with the geriatric assessment program as required. This program requires a physician referral and comes at no direct cost to the user.

Psychogeriatric Resource Consultant Program

This program provides a service to staff at long term care homes and mental health agencies in the form of training, education and consultation with the aim of improving the level of care delivered to older adults with dementia or Alzheimer's disease. The psychogeriatric resource consultant is available to regularly meet with staff at the agency for educational topics or to consult on different issues, related to dementia, that the staff is challenged with at a given time. This service is available to the Thunder Bay and District area.

Dementia Care Program

The dementia care program provides an in-patient environment for older adults who display severe behavioural concerns related to dementia. A variety of health care disciplines for the interprofessional care team which aims to assess, treat, and stabilize the older adult's concerns related to their dementia. With the permission of the healthcare team, families of the older adult can be involved in the treatment process. A physician or nurse practitioner referral is necessary for acceptance into this in-patient program. There is no direct cost to the user for this program.

Seniors Behavioural Health Outreach Team

This program explores the non-pharmaceutical dimensions of health for the older adult with behavioural issues related to dementia or other mental illness. Examples of topics explored during the assessment include behavioural issues, functional decline, safety, caregiver stress, education needs, and cognitive issues. A case manager is appointed to each older adult who will coordinate care by different health disciplines. Case managers are available to meet with older adults at their place of residence (including long term care homes) and will follow-up with the older adult as long as the services is required. A referral from a primary health care provider is required to access this program. There is no direct fee charged to the user for this service.

Seniors Community Psychiatry Program

This program provides psychiatric assessment, treatment, and follow-up which includes medication management to older adults with mental health challenges. Health care professionals are able to meet with the older adult at their place of residence (or long term care home) and provide necessary follow-up as required. A psychiatrist specializing in geriatrics will review current medication and provide advice on medication changes in collaboration with the older adult's primary health care provider. A primary healthcare provider referral is necessary to access this service. There is no direct cost to the user for this program.

Seniors' Psychiatry Day Program

The seniors' psychiatry day program operates out of Lakehead Psychiatric Hospital and provides therapeutic programming services to older adults over 65 years of age who have a stable mental illness. The program includes both individual and group components and includes recreation, rehabilitation, leisure activities, and health promotion initiatives. A referral from a primary health care provider is necessary to attend the program and the intake coordinator approves successful applications. There is no direct cost to the user for this program.

The Canadian Mental Health Association (CMHA) provides a variety of programs intended to assist older adults diagnosed with dementia to maintain independence and thrive in the community.

CMHA offers a case management program to older adults in order to assist with the navigation of the health and social services system. A support plan is created which reflects the unique needs of the individual and offers a diverse network of services to assist with maintaining independence in the community and continuing with a high quality of life. Supports and services can include help with navigating the health or mental health system, medication and symptom management, assistance with ADLs, health promotion, and education. A dedicated community support worker will establish a support plan and regularly follow the older adult to ensure continuity of care.

The district mental health services for older adults program enables older adults to access specialized community-based geriatric services. In order to qualify, the older adult must be 60 years of age or older and be diagnosed with a mental illness, dementia, or Alzheimer's disease. Examples of services offered include assessment and cognitive screening, counseling, care and treatment planning, referrals and advocacy, and cognitive behavioural treatments. CMHA works closely with a geriatric psychiatrist from Toronto via videoconferencing in order to provide clients with assessments, case consultation, and education. This program allows older adults to be seen by a geriatric psychiatrist in their community without facing the geographical barriers of travelling. The older adults must be followed by a physician who is in support of consulting with the geriatric psychiatrist. A geriatric mental health worker facilitates the videoconferencing session and ensures that necessary follow-up and recommendations are provided.

The psychogeriatric resource consultant program assists long term care homes and community support agencies with their older adult population having a diagnosis of dementia or Alzheimer's disease. The psychogeriatric resource consultant provides the staff at the long term care homes or community support agencies with the knowledge needed to develop and critique care plans for clients who exhibit behavioural issues related to their mental health diagnosis. The psychogeriatric resource consultant can also provide education to staff tailored to the unique needs of the particular agency.
